ITA Software Announces Expanded Licensing Agreement With ORBITZ

(Cambridge, MA, May 28, 2002) - ITA Software, Inc. has extended to 2007 its technology licensing agreement with ORBITZ, the highly successful travel site launched by American, Continental, Delta, Northwest and United Airlines. With ITA Software's proprietary airfare shopping and pricing technology, and a user interface based on ITA Software's unique fare presentation matrix, ORBITZ has become the third largest travel site on the Internet.

Under the new licensing agreement, ORBITZ is to deliver ITA Software's powerful airfare shopping and pricing technology to a wide spectrum of the travel market, including corporate travel agents. ORBITZ has recently signed an agreement with Aqua Software, a subsidiary of Denver-based mega agency Navigant International, which will enable travel agents to use ITA Software's technology directly from their Computer Reservation System (CRS) workstations.

"We are very pleased to have extended and expanded our licensing agreement with ORBITZ. We view this as a strong endorsement of ITA Software's commitment to deliver market-leading, high performance technology to the travel industry, both now and in the future," said Jeremy Wertheimer, President and CEO of ITA Software.

With ITA Software, licensees realize substantial cost savings. ITA Software has developed the world's only airfare shopping and pricing system that is not dependent upon CRS legacy mainframe pricing systems.

ITA Software technology enables users to quickly make informed decisions with significantly more and better quality information. With one click of the mouse, a user can receive all of the itineraries for a trip, each of them priced and confirmed as available.
